

Student Affairs Streamlined

By JEFF ANDORFER
& MATT CAMPBELL

Reorganization of student services here has taken place as a result of the recent visit by the consultants from Purdue University. Based on their inspection, the consultants found it necessary to update positions that would aid the college president and increase relations with the students.

Dr. Robert Garrity has been appointed vice-president for academic and student affairs. This new position will ease the president's already-burdensome duties so that he may devote more of his time to concentrate on other school-related issues.

Due to economic problems, there has been no student affairs vice-president since 1971. The Purdue consultants concluded that it would be beneficial to have reports of a lesser magnitude referred to someone other than the college president.

With the absence of a student affairs vice-president since 1971, Garrity will play an important role as supervisor for academic affairs and in reuniting the academic life with the social life of students.

"I feel it is necessary for this new position in order for the president to devote more of his time to other pressing concerns. I also feel it is necessary to improve communication between the students and the faculty because of the lack of concern over communications that has been exhibited in previous years," comments Garrity. "Over the past years, there has been a division between academic and social affairs and it is essential to reunite the two into one."

Although immediate future plans are tentative, Garrity finds that it will be necessary to rebuild student relations from the ground up instead of taking what we have and working down.

One of Garrity's plans is to initiate a retention study which will attempt to find out why students are leaving Saint Joe's.

In addition to Garrity's appointment, Sr. Karen Craig has been named director of student services. Her main concern is to coordinate all student activities other than academic. Craig will also act as a mediator between students and the dean of discipline.

"I hope by this new addition that academic life may merge with the student's social life," states Craig. "In the future I hope to get the students directly involved in the making of the laws and decisions of the campus community."

In addition to stating her views on student-faculty relationships, she also felt it necessary for the current student handbook to be revised so as to apply to today's time.

"In order for the student handbook to be effective, the students must first understand the laws and why we have them," says Craig.

Due to the recent resignation of Jerome Hughes, Father James Froelich has been appointed as acting director of discipline.

"My duties are simply to uphold the rules which are stated within the handbook. I will attempt to carry out these laws in a judicious manner," comments Father Froelich.

Father Froelich retains duties as a guidance counselor, but some of the duties will be distributed to other counselors.

"By accepting the new position as acting director of discipline, in no way will this affect my guidance responsibilities. In fact, it is possible that one could benefit from the other in that the majority of discipline measures coincide with guidance measures," states Father Froelich.

Senate Discusses Expansion Of Open House, Parking Facilities

By MARK QUEBBEMAN

Would you favor an extension of open house hours? Do you believe that the academic and / or personnel dean should be more responsive to the students? Do you feel parking space on campus is too limited? Should resident assistants be eliminated?

These are just a few examples of the issues discussed when members of the Senate met Jan. 11 in an informal brainstorming session to determine the goals of the Student Association for the remainder of the 1978-79 school year.

Father Bob Matichek, advisor to the Student Association, initiated the idea for a brainstorming session after the Student Association Executive Board meeting the week before.

"This year, the student government has seemed to be receptive to ideas, and the Senate certainly appears to have the potential to act on its ideas. However, a lot of people felt there was no direction, no goal. And people didn't have the opportunity to express their ideas," says Father Matichek.

The meeting began with Student Association president Mark Behnke (jr.-Gal.) and Senate president Don Penrod (sr.-ESF) proposing their goals for the Senate for the remainder of the year. Among these were the open house extension and an amendment to the Student Association constitution calling for the election of the SA president and executive vice-president on the same ballot.

After this introduction, Father Matichek conducted the remainder of the meeting as Senate members submitted their proposals. The result was a list of over 75 ideas which the Senate could concentrate on throughout the rest of the year. After this brainstorming, the meeting divided into small discussion groups to determine various courses of action.

Most of the members agreed that the brainstorming session was a complete success.

"I thought it was excellent because people got a chance to speak their feelings," states Jim Pronteau (sr.-Gal.), chairman of the maintenance committee.

"There was an openness to new and opposing viewpoints which encourages people to work together," said Father Matichek. "The ability to approach an issue from both sides is a real sign of maturity."

"I believe we really accomplished a lot with this session," adds Behnke. "But there is a lot more to do. Now that we finally are aware of what we want to do, the task remains for us to actually do it."

Mardi Gras Combines Fun 'N Games

By MONIQUE LACOUTURE

All the colorful festivities of New Orleans will come alive tomorrow night as Mardi Gras weekend begins here at Saint Joseph's.

Game and gambling booths arranged around the ballroom will highlight the weekend fun starting at 9 p.m. and ending at midnight for both tomorrow and Saturday nights. Once again, gambling chips will be used as monetary symbols, as various clubs and organizations urge the "big spenders" to try their luck on their tables.

Campus Organizations Senator Bruce Hicks (sr.-Aqu.), says that he's hoping to see many students turn out and have fun. "In past Mardi Gras weekends, I've been disappointed in the attendance, but I guess it's hard to get people to come when almost everyone goes home; this year, though, I hope things will be different."

"I was surprised and proud of the job both the Sociology and English clubs did with their booths at Monte Carlo," Hicks says. "It was the first time in the history of either Monte Carlo or Mardi Gras that refreshment booths were attempted, but I felt, and still do feel, that we need more changes and new ideas to keep these two weekends alive."

For musical entertainment, the big-band sound of the Campus Dixieland Band will be appearing tomorrow night. Led by Father Ralph Verdi, Father Robert Onofrey, and five Saint Joe students, the band will be playing its own version of pop, jazz, rock, and of course dixieland tunes to delight any listener.

On Saturday night, a seven-piece rock group out of Chicago called Tantrum will fill Halleck ballroom with its energetic sounds to help keep the audience on its feet for the entire evening. Tomorrow night's performance will begin at 9:30 p.m. and end at midnight, while Saturday's mixer will run the usual 9:30 p.m.-12:30 a.m.

"I urge all students to get involved and come out to support their own and other clubs," says Hicks. "These weekends are designed as different entertainment for the students, and if any changes are to be made in future years, we need output from the students to help improve what happens at Saint Joe."

Blackjack will again be one of the favorite table games this weekend when Mardi Gras comes to Halleck Center. The student center will take on the appearance of New Orleans with a bit of Las Vegas thrown in on Friday and Saturday nights.

Rapport Needed

With the recent restructuring of several college administrative positions, it is very unlikely that college policies will take on cataclysmic proportions.

Initially this change was the contributing factor to campus-wide student unrest, as was evidenced by the satirical flyers that were distributed two Saturday's ago at dinner.

Student dissatisfaction was directed towards measures that members of the administration had suddenly taken in an attempt to constrict blatant disregard of handbook regulations.

With the assistance of hindsight, it is safe to say that these seemingly harsh measures were nothing more than the administration bringing to light the seriousness of handbook regulations.

Although the law appeared to be applied indiscriminately, as many students attested to, it was done so NOT to be tyrannical but to awaken the students to the de facto existence of laws.

While these acts were carried out in good faith by the administration, it must be pointed out that in the future student sensitivities should be carefully gauged before undertaking such actions.

During this transition period, student-administration relationships will take on a metamorphosis of sorts. Depending upon the attitudes of both students and administrators, this change can go in one of many directions.

History as our witness shows us that those periods most vulnerable to the slightest of influences are those that are in transitional stages. It is the responsibility of all parties concerned to make a concerted effort towards developing an honest rapport in addition to offering constructive feedback concerning the possibility of new regulatory legislation.

Election Petitions Available

Petitions for Student Association elections will be available Monday, Feb. 26, from the Student Association executive vice-president, members of the Elections Committee, or at the Student Association offices.

Petitions are due Friday noon, Mar. 16, at the office of the Student Association executive vice-president. Student Association elections will be held in the cafeteria at lunch and dinner on Tuesday, Mar. 20. Run-offs will take place the following day at the same place and times.

A Bit Of Sunshine

Dear Diary: I'm Peeved

By DIANE LINN

6 February

Dear Diary:

I don't know if I really want to come back next year; I thought I did, but now I'm not so sure anymore. I don't like the revolutionary business going on around here: the big changeover in administration and they tell us virtually nothing -- I sometimes wonder if even they know what is going on. Then this matter about closing the laundromat without telling us. It's like rich folks take it for granted that poor college kids all own cars. I have a music friend who got a royal pimp from this place, but he's going to stick it out. He had to go to Valparaiso for music lessons last year to complete his major and the administration wouldn't even provide money for transportation, yet they paint a mural that costs much money in upkeep. I don't understand, but I try. Why wouldn't anybody tell what is going on?

Dear Diary:

It's only me again. I feel so rebellious. I want to lash out at someone, to be destructive. An educational institution is to serve students, not administrators. The science building is going to be locked up between 11 p.m. and 7:30 a.m. I like to study in the classrooms where it is quiet, until one and two in the morning. Is that fair? Tell me that. I appreciate the thought of protecting valuable equipment and books, but isn't there some other way they could do it? What about the students who pay good money to get an education and have access to educational facilities? I suppose revenue is unimportant to some folks: they can't complain when students start transferring out of here by the dozen. I wish I had the power to rectify injustice, but then, dear diary it is, only small me.

Letters To The Editor

Opinions expressed here are not necessarily those of the student body, the administration, the faculty, or all members of the staff, and STUFF does not accept responsibility for the views expressed in any letter, signed or unsigned, which appears on these pages. What it does accept is the responsibility for giving differing opinions the chance to appear here.

* * * * *

Dear Editor,

This is in response to the student who feels that it is the responsibility of the admissions office to see that East Coast students get home over breaks.

It is obvious from your letter that you don't know the functions of the admissions office. It is not their duty to provide you with transportation home over breaks. Even if it were their duty, why should you East Coast Students be special? Shouldn't they then provide transportation for those students living in Indiana, Ohio, etc.? Be realistic. If you had gone to Boston College how would you have gotten there? I'm sure the college wouldn't pick you up at your door.

When you were choosing what college you should attend, you should have thought about how you were going to get there. It seems unbelievable that in this day and age you did not take transportation costs into consideration while figuring out the cost of a college education.

If you want a bus to the East Coast, I suggest you go to the Student Association and see if they can help you get one organized. And in the meantime, before you jump to conclusions, try finding the facts out first.

Sincerely,
Sue J. Donohue

Editor's note: In fact, transportation will be provided by the Admission's Office for those students living on the East Coast. A minimum of 30 students is required. Cost: $45 round trip per student.

Dear Editor,

After reading your letter in the Jan. 25 issue of STUFF, I took a walk down the hall and glanced into the rooms of those students with televisions. Granted, only six out of 18 had sets, but there were more than 12 people watching television. In other words, people who have televisions share them with their friends. By them I mean the sets themselves--not the cost.

I must ask you a question. Have you ever watched a friend's TV? If so, did you offer to help pay the cost? In most cases those students who have it "easy" enough to buy a TV must invest 30-odd dollars to entertain themselves and their friends.

I have a TV and I love it when my friends come in to watch it. I do not appreciate those kids who watch TV (mine or anybody else's) and then complain about helping to lower the cost for the owner. Some of those "easy" folks you talk about have to work for what they have.

Also, TV owners are not the only ones who benefit from this new system. Almost everyone has a stereo. Hooking up to the cable will help pull in FM stations. Granted, now that WPUM is expanding, we do not have to look outside Collegeville for quality radio. But such an arrangement will help when we are trying to pull Chicago stations in.

If you are one of the students who do not have either a TV or a stereo, or has never watched a friend's TV, then I understand your complaint. In my opinion, though, enough students fall into the above categories to justify the new pricing system.

Sincerely,
A TV Owner

Editor's note: Quite simply, NO student should be compelled to pay for a service which is not utilized due to the unavailability or unaffordability of a TV or stereo.

Dear Editor,

Recently our mixers have become a spectator sport. No longer do we dance and mix, but rather we glance and FIX our eyes on the rock star of the evening. Could it be that our bands have improved in quality to the point that to dance would be a social faux pas (no, no)? I for one certainly hope not.

Mixers are just that. . . at mixers thus we should mix and dance to the music, not glance to the music.

Sincerely,
Fred Astaire

Dear Editor:

In response to the friendless person:

Friendship is one of our priceless possessions. It cannot be planned or purchased. It might begin with a smile, a handshake, a kind word, a favor. It deepens when we share our time, our ideas, our thoughts--and even our weaknesses--with someone we trust.

But the moment we stop giving of ourselves, when a smile becomes too much of an effort, a kind word becomes a routine, or a favor becomes an inconvenience, friendship begins to diminish. It's like a plant. Cultivated, fertilized and watered, it grows. Neglected, it begins to die.

Everyone has their days, days in which human contact at times is best avoided. But don't give up on the person, don't call him a "hypocrite" or take a self-righteous attitude. Try to overlook the faults of others, and focus instead on our own weaknesses, and our own failures. Let us leave the judging to God.

--an excerpt from the letter of the Catholic Bishops of Ohio--

Dear Editor,

I hope you will take an interest in printing this letter in your newspaper or somehow find a way in bringing it to the attention of others.

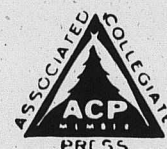

I am an inmate confined in a penal institution, with limited outside contact. I am also a college student very much in need of correspondence and friendship. If anyone chooses to write, I will gladly respond to all letters.

Thank you,
Robert Cameron

Women Host IAAW District Tourney

By ED FISETTE

Saint Joseph's College hosts the Northern District Indiana Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women basketball tourney here today through Saturday.

A random pairing finds Saint Joe (12-2) matched against Purdue-Calumet (2-8) Friday at 6:30 p.m. At 8 p.m., Saint Mary's (5-6) plays the winner of the Notre Dame (11-3)-Valparaiso (8-5) game which was played Thursday night. The championship game will be played Saturday at 2 p.m.

"I think this is going to be one of the tougher tournaments to win with the likes of Saint Joseph's and Notre Dame to beat," comments Saint Mary's head coach Jerry Dallessio.

Assistant Valpo coach Ruth

Brown says "We have to execute extremely well and play good defense to beat Notre Dame." And Notre Dame coach Sue Petro responds "We have to play with a little more intensity than we did against Saint Joe in order to win the tournament."

There are five district tourneys being held in the state of Indiana and the winner of each joins three at-large teams in the state finals to be held at Indiana State University Mar. 1-3.

The women's team enjoyed a pair of victories last weekend, including a 69-58 win over Taylor Friday and a 66-52 decision over St. Mary's of South Bend Saturday. Jennifer Voreis was a stand-out in both games with 24 points against Taylor and 29 against St. Mary's. Cheryl Getz added 14 in the Taylor game.

On Feb. 13, the women Fighting Irish suffered a 65-62 setback to the Pumas in Alumni Fieldhouse. Jennifer Voreis led the way for the Pumas with 21 points. Cheryl Getz and Kelly Good were also in double figures with 18 and 12 points respectively.

Getz also had 13 rebounds but the Irish still held a slim lead in the battle of the boards, 34-33.

Notre Dame had four more turnovers than Saint Joe, 23-19, but the big difference in the game was 13 steals by the Pumas compared to four for the visitors.

Butler remained undefeated this season as the Bulldogs beat the Pumas 72-69 at Saint Joe. "I felt we played a good game, but the last three or four minutes of the first half we couldn't score and that really hurt us," comments head coach Sue Buntin.

With less than eight minutes to go in the game, the Pumas were 19 points down. A furious rally at the end saw the Pumas fall just short of victory.

"If we had a little bit more time on the clock, we would have caught them," reflects Buntin.

Good led the way for the Pumas with 21 points and Voreis popped in 15. Linda Radivan was also in double figures with 14 points. Liz Skinner had 21 for Butler.

Saint Joe battled to a 28-20 halftime advantage against Valparaiso on Feb. 7 and overpowered a taller Valpo team to take a 71-49 decision.

SJC iced the victory by matching its first-half total of 28 points in the last ten minutes of the game.

Four SJC players were in double figures: Good (18), Radivan (16), Voreis (15), and Getz (14).

Jim Michels (44) of the Pumas launches a short jump shot over Dennis Mumford (55) and Craig DeWitt (43) of Eastern Illinois during the Pumas' 73-72 overtime victory over the powerful Panthers Feb. 12 in Alumni Fieldhouse.

The A and B League teams will play 15 games each. The C League teams each play 12 games. The men's I.M. basketball season ends Mar. 14, and playoffs of the individual leagues begin the following week.

Standings of women's basketball and men's floor hockey will be reported in the next issue of STUFF.

There will be a strong Evansville flavor to the tail end of Saint Joseph's basketball schedule as Indiana State - Evansville and the University of Evansville visit Alumni Fieldhouse for games Saturday and next Tuesday.

ISUE, one of the toughest Great Lakes region Division II teams, will be out to avenge an 82-77 setback suffered at the hands of the Pumas back on Feb. 3. The Eagles are led by Cortez Collins, a high-jumping forward who scored 26 points and grabbed eight rebounds before he fouled out in the first meeting with SJC.

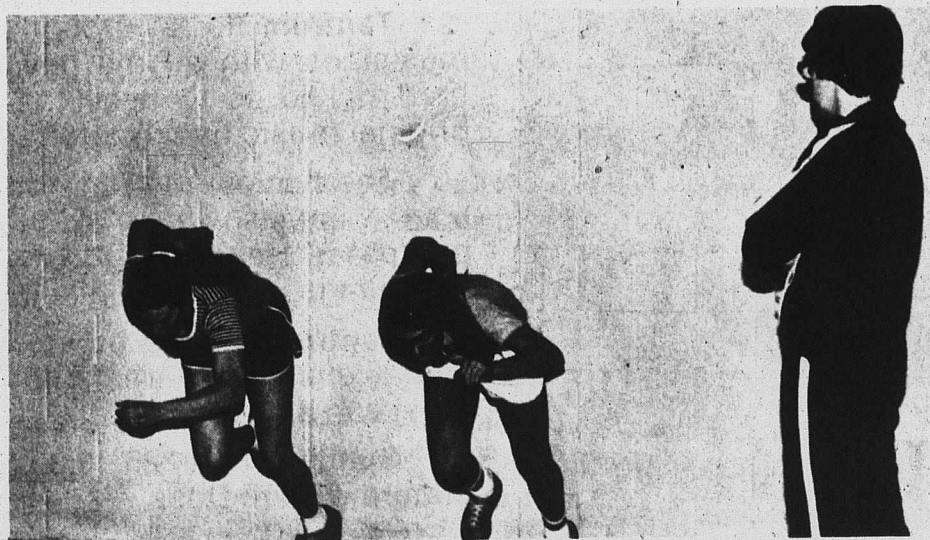

Size, muscle, and plenty of depth typifies Evansville's high-powered Division I basketball program. The Aces have taken ready advantage of an NCAA recruiting exception by recruiting a host of huge transfer students to fill out their roster. UE transfers are immediately eligible this season, following last year's plane crash.

The chilly temperatures outside matched Saint Joseph's shooting on Feb. 7 as Valparaiso defeated the Pumas in Alumni Fieldhouse, 70-65.

One of the highlights of the season for head coach George Waggoner and the Pumas was a Feb. 10 upset of Butler, 80-72.

Long-range bombs by Sims and Brown enabled the Pumas to rally from ten points down with 12 minutes to play and catch the visitors six minutes later. They finally pulled ahead to stay at 3:34 to go in the game, 69-68, on Brown's 20-foot jumper.

"Our free throw shooting won it for us, and I also think our full-court and half-court pressure in the last 12 minutes made Butler play more cautious on offense," Waggoner noted. "They didn't move as well on offense in the closing minutes, and our defense was able to trap them more successfully."

Tough Evansville Competition Scheduled

Saint Joe avenged an earlier loss to tough Eastern Illinois in a rescheduled game on Feb. 12. Dave Downey's tip-in with one second to go in regulation play sent the game into overtime, which eventually produced a 73-72 Puma victory.

"The most gratifying thing about this win tonight is that we beat a high-quality team—definitely tournament playoff quality," comments Waggoner. "It is what you classify as a big, big win for us and definitely puts us in a position to do well in tournament play. Now what we have to do is keep winning to stay in contention for a tournament bid."

Downey led the Pumas' attack with 21 points, Kates added 18 and Brown scored 11.

Saint Joe clinched at least a share of the Great Lakes Valley Conference title Feb. 14 at Indianapolis by beating Indiana Central 67-65.

A jump shot by Sims with 46 seconds to play proved to be the game-winner. Downey led SJC with 20 points and 11 rebounds while Sims added 17 points.

Doug West bagged two free throws with 20 seconds to play here last Saturday to wrap up Franklin's 62-61 win over the Pumas. A pair of inopportune turnovers in the final minute to play helped the Grizzlies to their 14th win of the season, while Randy Reece led the winners with 24 points. Dave Downey led SJC with 18 points and 15 rebounds.

Senate Members Weigh Performances

The following are interviews conducted by Reginald Pulliam in an attempt to ascertain a senatorial perspective of the senate, its goals and objectives. Being interviewed are Jerry Hemmelgarn (jr.-Noll), Bruce Hicks (sr.-Aqu.) Campus Organizational Senator, and Keith Weber (sr.-Ben.).

Q: What should be the first and foremost objective of any student senator?

Hemmelgarn:

The main objective should be to represent the constituents from our dorms and to act in their best interest.

Hemmelgarn

Hicks:

Any senator should fairly and conscientiously represent those ideas of the floor and dorm constituents. Not only should they represent the dorm members fairly, but the senator should also think through the question at hand or the topic of debate and draw a rational decision based on the information that they have at their disposal.

Weber:

The senator's foremost job would be to acquire the opinion of his dormmates and to express them at the senate meetings.

Q: Is this objective presently being met and how?

Hemmelgarn:

Currently, this objective is being met. Yet, some senators do not voice their opinion nor offer any verbal input that would aid in the proceedings.

Hicks:

I would have to say that this objective is not being met. My reasoning is twofold. During the first semester, there was only one truly fruitful senate meeting. The remaining meetings, in my opinion, have been more or less boring, dealing with such matters as how long should the grass be cut or how many light bulbs should we place in the janitorial closet. Of course I am being figurative, but do you get the idea of what I am saying? I think that I am echoing the sentiments of most senators by saying this. Secondly, it seems to me that the senators in general do not feel that their position is of any importance.

Weber:

As far as I am concerned, this objective is not being met simply because it requires a lot of work to canvass the dorm to obtain student opinion.

Q: Is there room for improvement in the senate? Explain.

Hemmelgarn:

This past semester proposals concerning important issues were not distributed to the senators on time. This should be done in advance of the meetings so that the senators would be able to gauge student approval or disapproval of that proposal.

Hicks:

There's one position that came out that has received much attention in STUFF concerning the cable television campus-wide service. There has been a great deal of talk about the fairness of charging students for a service that they would not use if they did not own a television. Without expressing the views of others, I would like to say that the senate's action on this issue represents something potentially dangerous to the students and the school. It represents the lack of communication between the students and the senators.

Weber:

I don't really know how it could be improved. Quite possibly there could be classes offered or a learning session on the operation of the senate, how it is run and what the responsibilities are.

Q: Due to the multiplicity of viewpoints among the dorm members, how do you reconcile these differences when voting on an issue?

Hemmelgarn:

Usually I will visit members of the dorm to find out how they feel on an issue. If there is a division in opinion, I try to be as equitable as possible in coming to my own conclusion.

Hicks:

First of all, my position is rather unique in that unlike other senators who must represent their dorm, I do not represent a dorm. I represent the campus clubs. There is a question of relevancy that comes into play. I don't think that there is too much relevance between what the clubs need and want and what actually happens at the senate.

Weber:

As far as conflicting opinions are concerned, I would normally take the position of the more popular or rather the majority viewpoint. If there was an equal split in opinion, I would have no choice but to vote at my own discretion.

Technology Fellowships Offered

By JOHN BURRELL

Once again Saint Joseph's College will participate in the annual Center for Technology Assessment and Policy Studies Fellowship program to be held at Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology in Terre Haute, Ind., from June 24 to Aug. 3.

This six-week summer program is designed to provide an opportunity for outstanding students from all academic disciplines to work cooperatively in the search for solutions to pressing social issues.

Dr. John Nichols, campus liaison of the program for Saint Joseph's, says "This will be the fifth year that the college has participated in the technology assessment program."

Students wishing to apply for one of the 16 available fellowships should contact Dr. Nichols or any one of the students who participated last year.

"A positive relationship between Rose-Hulman and Saint Joseph's has been the result of our constant student participation," comments Nichols.

Last year four students from Saint Joseph's were accepted to the fellowship program. They were Jeanne Wilson (sr.-Jus.), Reggie Pulliam (sr.-Aqu.), Sue Fritsche (December graduate) and Kit Hartnett (sr.-Jus.).

Hartnett explains the TA program as being "An outlook toward the social, political, economic and technological effects that may result when a technology is introduced, modified, or extended." Hartnett adds that there was a great deal of work involved. "Much research went into the preparation of the final assessment and occasionally a few all-nighters were pulled."

Hartnett and her group carried out an assessment of the impact of the federal sulfur oxide control regulations upon Indiana.

Students who are awarded the fellowship are exempted from room and board fees and are given a stipend of $100 per week.

Saint Joseph's also gives each awardee six credit hours to be applied to his/her major area of study and Core 10.

The culmination of the program was a student-written text, the contents of which were presented at a symposium attended by local businessmen, politicians, government agencies, concerned citizens and the news media.

In previous years, Saint Joseph's has had an average of four to six student representatives accepted to the center, one of the largest turnouts from any one school.

Deramo Wins Chess Tourney

On Feb. 10, the second annual chess tournament was held in Halleck Center.

This year there is a new champion: Patsy Deramo (sr.-Ben.), who captured first place with a perfect score of 4-0.

Deramo defeated defending champion James Gwyn (jr.-Noll) in the second round.

Second place went to Larry Lennon of the psychology department. He finished with a record of 2-2.

There was a tie for third place between Gwyn and Mark Salkeld (so.-Ben.). Both also had records of 2-2.

Since Lennon, Salkeld, and Gwyn all had identical records, their order of finish was determined by the strength of their opponents. All four received trophies. The tournament was sponsored by the Chess Club.

Singing telegrams were part of the day's festivities on Valentine's Day Feb. 14, as members of the chorus (left) paid surprise visits to students who hardly expected mid-afternoon serenades.

Social Preview

Mark Doss (jr.-Mer.) will present "An American Recital" in Saint Joseph's auditorium Sunday at 3:30 p.m.

Doss, an outstanding baritone, will present selections from Camelot, South Pacific and Man of LaMancha. Mark is no stranger to the stage, as some students might remember his recital last year or his outstanding performance in Man of LaMancha, when he portrayed the worrisome Padre.

Doss also will be performing this Friday in the Young Arts Program and Saturday he will audition for the Metropolitan Opera. Auditions will be held at Valparaiso and they are open to the public.

Doss deserves a warm welcome, as he is a very talented PUMA.

Saturday, Feb. 24, mixer, featuring Tantrum, 9:30 p.m.-12:30 a.m., ballroom.

Tantrum is a group of seven seasoned Chicago musicians with all the power of Led Zepplin, yet not so hard-rocked as to deny the pleasing sound their unique, original music has to offer.

The nucleus of Tantrum is composed of three female lead vocalists who may remind some students of such groups as Heart and Fleetwood Mac. But the only group Tantrum is interested in sounding like is Tantrum.

Tantrum should prove to be the right combination of talent, energy and versatility needed to make Mardi Gras Weekend a success.

Sunday, Feb. 25, 3:30 p.m., "An American Recital" featuring Mark Doss.

Thursday, Mar. 1, senior social event.

Friday, Mar. 2, spring recess begins.

Thursday, Mar. 22, Indiana Ballet Theatre, 7:30 p.m., auditorium; part of Fine Arts Series.
